BENNETT TO STAND AGAIN IN CALGARY

Prime Minister Gives No Hint of General Election Date During Interview

STATES ISSUE WILL BE CLEARLY DEFINED

CALGARY, Nov. 26 (CP).—When the general election will be called remained as much a mystery as ever tonight after Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, in an interview here, had dropped a provokingly vague remark about the record of the Government being revealed "within the next few months."

Asked for an elaboration of his statement, made in the course of his announcement that he will again be a candidate for the Conservative Party for West Calgary, Mr. Bennett refused to add to his reference. He merely referred, he said, to the fact that an election will be held in due course. A suggestion that he had meant to hint at the date of the election, brought hearty laughter from the Prime Minister. He had not been thinking about the matter at all, he said.

LEAVES FOR OTTAWA

Full of high spirits as he left for Ottawa after a four-day stay in his home town, Mr. Bennett expressed confidence that "the Government will be triumphantly returned to office" at the next Federal election, in "appreciation of the service rendered by the Government for the past years."

RUMOR SPREAD OF MOBILIZING

Report Blackshirts Ordered to Stand By for Saar Plebiscite Period

BERLIN, Nov. 26 (CP-Havas).—Mobilization of the Hitlerite black-shirted troops, the Schutz Staffeln, was rumored under way here today. The men were said to be under orders to stand by before, during and after the Saar plebiscite of January 13 next, now little more than a month away.

This rumor was accompanied by reports from unusually reliable sources that there had been a widening of the rift between the blackshirts guards and the regular army, the Reichswehr.

LEADER DISSATISFIED

It was indicated that Heinrich Himmler, Reich leader of the Schutz Staffeln, had called a meeting of his chiefs in the old castle at Marks, near Coblenz, and that he had freely voiced his dissatisfaction with the Reichswehr attitude.

"It may be all very well for it to be understood abroad that the Reichswehr alone is allowed to carry arms," he is reported to have declared. "But within the country, in present circumstances, we have not only the right, but also the duty, to carry arms."

In connection with the Saar mobilization, the reports stated that the Schutz Staffeln would supervise the activities of the brown shirts, under Saar Commissioner Joseph Buerckel.

Strikers Riot While Officials Negotiate Terms for a Truce

Ten Arrested at Los Angeles When Demonstration Broken Up With Tear Gas—One Policeman Injured—All Reserves Are Out

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26 (AP).—Shortly after union officials and Los Angeles railway company officials moved toward a truce in the street car strike, a wild demonstration at Seventh Street and South Broadway was broken up by police with tear gas after ten men had been arrested and one policeman injured, late today. All police reserves were used.

For almost an hour traffic was tied up at the downtown intersection as strike sympathizers, encouraged and boomed by hundreds of spectators and street car passengers, jerked trolleys, jeered at conductors and motorists and released air from the brakes of cars.

CARS STALLED

Approximately twenty-five street cars were stalled. Patrolman L. A. Peterson was beaten during the demonstration, but he arrested Sandy Garrison, twenty-four, prizefighter, and took him to police headquarters for the assault.

Seven of the other nine men arrested were declared to have been railway employees, who went out of the city.

Carcass of Monster on View at Prince Rupert

DOCTOR'S VERDICT STRENGTHENS HOPE FOR CADDY'S LIFE

"Remains" of Decomposed "Monster" Found on Henry Island Positively Identified by Biological Expert of Nanaimo as Those of Basking Shark, Common Denizen of Pacific

NANAIMO, Nov. 26 (CP).—Skeptics referred tonight to Dr. W. A. Clemens, director of the biological station here, for proof that the sea serpent bubble had been exploded once and for all. Staunch believers in the existence of Cadorosaurus found in the wisdom of the noted biologist an indication that their favorite marine monster still lives.

Dr. Clemens shattered the theory that the thirty-three-foot remains of a slender, reportedly horse-headed, sea beast found on Henry Island, south of Prince Rupert, might have been those of "Caddy" by identifying the skeleton as that of a basking or waxed shark.

A COMMON CREATURE

The learned doctor stated that the huge creature was quite common in this latitude, usually swim alone, but in certain seasons band together. The skull, he said, is so soft it loses its shape when out of water, and, as the Henry Island shark was partly decomposed, the head was quite indistinguishable. Sometimes the basking shark measures

Queen Mother of Albania Is Dead

TIRANA, Nov. 26 (AP).—Queen Mother Sadie was buried today at Chataigner's Hill, overlooking the city, in the presence of King Zog, members of the Government, and thousands of Albanian subjects.

The impressive funeral services were held after the body had lain in state at the Royal Palace where the public was permitted to pay its last respects.

The Queen Mother died at Durazzo yesterday of a sudden illness. Her weak heart could not stand the strain of a pulmonary congestion.

FRANCE HEARS TREATY RUMORS

Turkish Minister Said to Be Arranging Security Pact in Paris

PARIS, Nov. 26 (CP-Havas).—Rumors of a pending Franco-Turkish mutual assistance and security pact persisted, today, in well-informed quarters, adding fuel to the already charged atmosphere following upon the Foreign Office's denial of a secret military pact with the Soviet Union.

The presence of Tervik Rushdi Bey, Turkish Foreign Minister, for conferences with Foreign Minister Pierre Laval, gave impetus to the rumor, which was further emphasized by a dispatch from the Geneva correspondent of the well-informed morning paper, Le Temps, in which he quite openly discussed the possibility of such a liaison between France and the Eastern country.

CONFERS WITH TITULESCU

Laval, today, received one of the Foreign Ministers of the Little Entente, Nicholas Titulescu of Rumania, who came here from last week's session of the League of Nations Assembly in Geneva. They conferred at great length, and when Titulescu came out of the Foreign Office he refused to offer any comment to the press.

A French note to Poland on the proposed "Eastern Locarno" pact, which involves a whole series of mutual assistance pacts, was transmitted at Warsaw to Polish Foreign Minister Joseph Beck. The note was in reply to the Polish memorandum delivered to the late French Foreign Minister, Louis Barthou, September 21 last. Neither note has been published.

Siamese King Not Likely to Return

BANGKOK, Nov. 26 (AP).—The ministry of the royal household is shipping two big automobiles from the royal garage to King Prajadhipok in London, it was revealed today.

This was generally believed to indicate that the monarch proposes to prolong his stay abroad, with the probability of his standing his decision to abdicate becoming more remote than ever.

SWEEPED TO HIS DEATH

HALIFAX, Nov. 26 (CP).—A brief message from the National fish trawler Vienne, reported today that Isghor Thorngesen, of Dartmouth, N.S., a seaman, was washed overboard Sunday night while the vessel was ploughing through heavy seas. No details were given.

Sensational Gold Strike Reported In Northern B.C.

Huge Body of High-Grade Ore Found on McDame's Creek—Discoverer Treks 1,000 Miles Overland From Fort St. John to Scene of Find—Assays Show Immense Values

(Special to The Colonist)

VANCOUVER, Nov. 26.—News of a sensational gold strike on McDame's Creek, tributary to the Dease River, was reported here by William Strong, well-known aviator and mining man, who flew down from Juneau, over the week-end in company with Pilot Howard A. McDonald, and Lynch Callison, the discoverer. More than 200 claims have been staked since Callison struck free-milling gold assaying as high as $700 a ton last August in a quartz-porphry vein, 600 feet in width and of great depth and known to extend twelve miles.

The steady influx of miners from all parts of the Cassiar is expected to become a stampede with the advent of Spring.

Lynch Callison, who reached McDame's Creek to make the big find after a thousand-mile overland trek from Fort St. John, is negotiating with a large Seattle syndicate, who have offered $10,000 for an option on his fourteen claims and a further $125,000 on completion of the agreement for purchase.

The assay of the two half-ton sample shipments of surface ore, one of which was taken out by plane, averaged $425 to the ton. The

TROLLING BOAT BLOWN ASHORE

Eve Is Total Loss—Japanese Crew Safe at Carmahna Lighthouse

With two Japanese aboard, the trolling Eve was blown ashore early last evening at Carmahna Point, according to a wireless message received by the Department of Naval Service at Esquimalt, from Captain W. Redford, of the patrol ship Givency.

The message stated that the boat was a total loss, but that the two members of the crew had managed to get ashore safely and were being taken care of at the lighthouse.

Givency alternates with the Armentiers in maintaining a life-saving patrol on the West coast of Vancouver Island during the winter months. The ships are based at Banfield, and their duties consist of patrolling the coast east and west of that point. The Givency has another fortnight to put in on patrol, when she will be relieved for the Christmas holiday period by the Armentiers.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS PRESIDENT LEAVES OFFICE TEMPORARILY

Blasting Closes Island Highway For While Today

MOTORISTS on Vancouver Island were advised yesterday by the British Columbia Department of Public Works that the Island Highway will be closed today between Shawnigan Lake Road and Mill Bay, on account of blasting. Traffic between 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. will be routed on a detour via Shawnigan Lake, Arthur Dixon, deputy minister of works, announced.

Two Prairie Cities Elect New Mayors

SASKATOON, Nov. 26 (CP).—Scoring the first change in Saskatchewan's municipal elections, B. M. Pinder was elected mayor of Saskatoon in today's balloting. Mayor Cornelius Rink, of Regina, and Mayor Harris Johnstone, of Moose Jaw, were re-elected.

Mayor Rink held a majority of approximately 400 over James Mc-Ara in Regina, while in Moose Jaw the result was even closer. An unofficial majority of 164 was credited to Dr. Johnstone.

In Saskatoon, Pinder polled 4,901 votes to 3,546 for the incumbent, Mayor J. S. Mills, in a four-cornered contest.

Wilbur M. Bowers, a former alderman, was elected mayor of Prince Albert, nosing out J. A. Gregory, M.L.A., the present incumbent of the office, by a majority of 241.

DEATH TAKES J. K. WILSON

Pioneer Real Estate Man and Banker Was Heavy Investor in Victoria

Death yesterday removed one of Victoria's best-known pioneer real estate men and bankers in the person of James Keith Wilson, aged eighty-eight years, who for sixty years was a resident of this city.

Born in Aberdeen, Scotland, Mr. Wilson received his education and early business experience in that city, and was sent from there to take charge of the Portland, Oregon, branch of the Bank of British North America sixty years ago.

Shortly after coming to the Pacific Coast, he transferred his activities to Victoria, becoming associated with the Bank of British North America here.

He left the banking business to enter real estate operations, and up to his death was a heavy property holder in the Greater Victoria area.

OWNED BUILDINGS

Chief among the buildings in his possession when death claimed him were the Metropolis Hotel, Wilson Hotel, a block on the corner of Johnson and Broad Streets, and several other business properties. Formerly he owned the Portland Hotel and the Ritz Hotel, but he sold these buildings some years ago.

In 1894 he served as an alderman on the city council, but remained in office only one year.

He was a man who did not associate with a great number of organizations. However, he was a keen historian and had a fund of information about early British Columbia. He was a member of the British Columbia Historical Association, where he found an outlet

DUKE NOT COMING TO VISIT CANADA

LONDON, Nov. 26 (CP).—The Duke of Gloucester, the King's third son, who has been attending the Victorian Centenary celebrations in Australia, will spend three weeks in the British West Indies on his return journey, but will not visit Canada.

The schedule for the return journey announced from Buckingham Palace, tonight, calls for traveling from New Zealand by way of the Panama Canal. After leaving the canal zone His Royal Highness arrives at Kingston, Jamaica, on February 26, leaving on March 8 for a short visit to the Bahamas and Bermuda. He will reach Nassau on the morning of March 16, leaving on March 18 at night. He arrives at Bermuda early on March 16, leaving on March 19, and arriving back in England on March 28.

GET TEN BOB APIECE

LONDON, Nov. 26 (CP).—Three armed bandits who held up a London branch of the Westminster Bank today got away with a pound note and ten shillings in change.

Czech Chairman to Retire While Yugoslav Terrorist Charges Against Hungary Are Heard—Italy Refuses Extradition to France of Two Men Implicated in Assassination

Authorities at Rome Wait For Possible Repercussions

GENEVA, Nov. 26 (AP).—The Yugoslav-Hungarian controversy over responsibility for the slaying of King Alexander resulted today in assurances of the temporary removal of Dr. Eduard Benes, of Czechoslovakia, as president of the League of Nations Council. Hungary demanded the Czech Foreign Minister's removal while the dispute is under consideration, and the League shortly afterward issued a communique stating that Dr. Benes had anticipated the move and informed the secretary-general before leaving Geneva that he could not act in his official capacity with the council if the Yugoslav appeal were on the agenda.

Hungary had pointed out that Czechoslovakia is a member of the Little Entente, as is also Yugoslavia, and that since the charges are of exceptional gravity, neighborly relations were endangered.

Jugoslavia last week asked that the council investigate whether the assassination of Alexander was plotted in Hungary, and the latter immediately countered with a charge that Jugoslavia was attempting to disturb international peace.

REBUFF TO JUGOSLAVIA

TURIN, Italy, Nov. 26 (AP).—Italian authorities were watching tonight for possible repercussions of Premier Benito Mussolini's second rebuff to Jugoslavia, for her attempts to place King Alexander's assassination under the international Kleig lights.

Il Duce's black shirt Court of Appeals have refused today to grant France's request for extradition of Dr. Ante Pavelich and Edgou Kvaternik, alleged brains of the Marseille slayings.

The Italian dictator's first blast was set off two days ago, when

MANILA SHAKEN BY EARTHQUAKE

Shocks Continuing Over Half Hour Cause Panic and Minor Damage

MANILA, Nov. 26 (AP).—Recently wracked by a typhoon and floods which cost more than a hundred lives, the Manila area was shaken tonight by a forceful earthquake, which inflicted minor damage and sent the populace into panic.

No casualties were reported. Bamboo dwellings in the slum districts were shaken down in some instances and cornices and windows of downtown buildings were cracked or shattered. Telephone and power lines also suffered.

The quivering of the earth continued thirty-six minutes, starting at 8:00 p.m. (7:09 a.m. E.S.T.). Crowds in the city's theatres rushed to the streets, where they were joined by thousands of others. There was great excitement. Two women received hospital treatment for hysteria.

The weather bureau described the earthquake as the most severe in "many years." Some residents declared it was the worst in a quarter century.

French Withdrawal From Fight for Saar Practically Certain

Foreign Minister Laval and Chancellor Hitler Said to Have Reached Understanding—Laval's Active Support to Anti-Nazis Not Expected

SAARBRUCKEN, Saar Territory, Nov. 26 (AP).—France, it was stated tonight in informed quarters, has practically withdrawn from the Saar plebiscite fight, making a large Nazi victory probable in January.

Foreign Minister Pierre Laval and Chancellor Adolf Hitler, said an unconfirmed report, have reached an understanding under which France agrees not to press the anti-Nazi cause and to talk no more about sending the French army into the Saar.

In return, according to this report, the Nazis have agreed to negotiate a financial settlement for the Saar mines as soon as possible.

WITHDRAWS FROM BATTLE
Laval, it was said, has indicated both to Berlin authorities and to anti-Nazis in the Saar that he is unwilling to continue the battle in favor of a status quo, which would leave the Saar under the League of Nations' jurisdiction, waged by his predecessor, the late Louis Barthou. Barthou was the mouthpiece for anti-Nazis at Geneva in their effort to obtain, if possible, a district or two for France and prevent Hitler from obtaining an overwhelming majority in the plebiscite.

SUPPORT UNLIKELY
Laval, more interested in settling the financial problems now being discussed at home, was not expected

DIRECTORATE OF BANK

Under the by-laws of the Bank of Canada the board of seven directors is to embrace two primary producers, two engaged in commerce or industry and the remaining three of other occupations. There is a suggestion that these directors should be selected geographically, or by provinces, though it is not clear that this will necessarily be the course adopted, because 70 per cent of the shares in the new bank are held by people of Central Canada. The Prairies, the Maritime Provinces and British Columbia may well be excluded from representation on the Board of Directors by virtue of the fact that the personnel will be elected by 12,000 private shareholders who cannot be dictated to in any manner.

It is because of the possibility of not securing geographical representation that the Canadian Chamber of Commerce is attempting to give a lead in the matter. The extent to which it will be able to influence the vote of the shareholders is another matter, for, apart from the selections made by provinces on the basis of the Chamber of Commerce's activities, others may be nominated for office. It is the character of the selections that will determine their chance of being successful. The best men are not always necessarily selected on the geographical basis, as is so often instanced in Cabinet formations. Moreover, there is a possibility that the Chamber of Commerce nominees may not fulfill the occupational qualifications designed by the by-laws of the Bank of Canada.

RE-ARMING OF GERMANY

Germany, in February, 1915, had 27 operating submarines and in March, 1917, she had 127. Thus in two years she was able to increase her submarine fleet by 100 units. Mr. Winston Churchill and others say that Germany is again re-arming on a large scale. There is no doubt that regulations put into force under Herr Hitler are making the country military-minded. Modern industrial development, reinforced by the lessons of the Great War, make military preparedness possible in a much more rapid way than in the past. Decisions reached at naval conferences designed towards disarmament can readily be treated, as the guaranteed independence of Belgium was, as so many scraps of paper. There is no doubt that Germany is increasing her defensive and offensive armaments, and the League of Nations seems to leave this delicate subject of violation of the Treaty of Versailles severely alone.

SOME EXPLODED LEGENDS

In educated circles in the middle and late Victorian era some acquaintance with the literary and historical essays of Lord Macaulay was regarded as essential. During that period Macaulay's influence was immense and widespread. Mr. Winston Churchill, speaking recently of the fame enjoyed by the great historian and essayist, his authority as a public man, his vast erudition, his strong convictions, and his captivating literary art, declares that "this glorious account of England's history dominates educated minds," and that "for a generation he set his seal upon the English judgment of the period presided over by the House of Stuart." Macaulay's place in English literature is sure. The greatness of his achievements as a writer of superb historical narrative is freely and gratefully acknowledged even by those who regard his History of England as "a huge Whig pamphlet." It is well known that Macaulay hoped that his history would supersede Hume's great work in public favor, a hope that was completely fulfilled.

The genius of Macaulay in literary portrait painting made or marred for a long period the reputations of a good many public characters in English history. During his lifetime, and for more than half a century afterwards, his pronouncements upon certain men and certain episodes in their careers were accepted without question. It is not too much to say that the opinions of the average English-speaking man concerning the character of the greatest military genius of the English race, the sufferings of the lowland Scottish peasantry at the hands of John Grahame of Claverhouse, and the blame for the horrid massacre of Glencoe were chiefly fixed and formed by Macaulay. Similarly the forbidding outline in which Macaulay drew the portrait of William Penn is familiar to everyone. Time, however, brings its revenges. There have recently been published, or rather republished after having lain dormant for three-quarters of a century, a series of essays upon the matters mentioned above which seem destined to effect a radical change in our opinions concerning the real characters of Marlborough, Claverhouse, and Penn, and also to shift the blame for the iniquity of Glencoe to the proper shoulders.

The "Examen" of John Paget was written for Blackwood in 1859. Macaulay died during that year and, for the moment, the "Examen" died with him. It has now reappeared, and it will give pleasure to the admirers of John Churchill, first Duke of Marlborough, of John Grahame of Claverhouse, Viscount of Dundee, and of Penn, the Founder of Pennsylvania to learn that the characters of these three men have been far more accurately drawn and that they have been effectively cleared of the accusations made against them by Macaulay. It now appears that the charges against Marlborough of avarice, fraud, and unfaithfulness are unfounded, or founded only upon the authority of anonymous and slanderous pamphleteers. The new view of the much-execrated Claverhouse is illuminated by the fact that in three of the five cases of "cruelty" charged against him by Macaulay, Claverhouse had no part whatever, that in a fourth he exerted himself in vain to save the life of the victim, and that there was no cruelty in the fifth case, but merely a military execution of a man of the most desperate character in actual rebellion who refused to take the "abjuration" (which by the way was not a religious test), would not swear not to rise in arms against the King, and said that he knew no King.

Paget's refutation of Macaulay's charges shows that in his earlier life the character of Claverhouse was honorably in line with what is known of him as the hero of Killiecrankie. Moreover, if Paget is right, the King himself must bear an even larger share of blame for what happened at Glencoe than Bredalbane and the Master of Stair, although their subordinate must share among themselves the responsibility for the peculiar treachery and atrocity attendant upon the execution of the order. The refutation of the charges against Penn is equally complete and convincing. As Mr. Winston Churchill says in his introduction to the new edition of Paget: "No one should read Macaulay's 'History' or his essays without also reading Paget's 'Examen' . . . I trust they may henceforward ever travel—I can hardly say hand in hand—but at least in company."

WORK OF S.P.C.A.

The interest evinced in the work done by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals never wanes. It is becoming an age-long task to provide a buffer between men and their evil passions and to maintain the medium whereby legitimate punishment is evoked when those passions are let loose. The S.P.C.A. is an organization which expresses a very high type of humanitarianism. It is all the higher because the work of so many who are engaged in its activities constitutes a labor of love. It is a work dictated by some of the finest instincts in the human heart and designed to protect those instincts in others by instigating action of the humane character towards the lower creation.

The local branch of the S.P.C.A. holds its annual meeting today. Victorians have every reason to be proud of the work that branch is engaged on year after year. Its officials have shown keenness and never-waning vigilance in expression of the purposes of the organization. Its record is reviewed at each annual gathering, and it is one of service. It can always give an excellent account of its stewardship, and the officials deserve hearty co-operation in every sense from our citizens as a whole.

Mr. Mitchell Hepburn, of Ontario, says that in the next Federal election campaign he will throw the entire weight of his Government behind the Liberal Party led by Mr. Mackenzie King. That decision is not flattering to the thousands of Conservatives who helped to elect Mr. Hepburn to office, but it is an evidence of the intensity of the political partisanship for which the present Government in Ontario has become notorious.

"THE OLD CONTEMPTIBLES"

Oh little mighty Force that stood for England! That, with your bow for a living shield, Guarded her slow awaking; that defied The sudden challenge of tremendous odds And fought the rushing legions to a stand— Then stark in grim endurance held the line. O little Force that in your agony Sood fast while England girt her armor on, Held high our honor in your wounded hands, Carried our honor safe with bleeding feet, We have no glory great enough for you, The very soul of Britain keeps your day! Procession?—Marches forth a Race in Arms; And, for the thunder of the crowd's applause, Crash upon crash the voice of monstrous guns. Fed by the sweat, served by the life of England, Shouting your battleries across the world.

Oh, little mighty Force, your way is ours, This land inviolate your monument.

—Beatrice Brice, in The London Times.

He who must needs have company must needs have sometimes bad company. Be able to be alone; lose not the advantage of solitude and the society of thyself; not be only content but delight to be alone and single with Omnipotency. He who is thus prepared, the day is not uneasy, nor the night black unto him. Darkness may bound his eyes, not his imagination. In his bed he may lie, like Pompey and his sons, in all quarters of the earth; may speculate upon the universe, and enjoy the whole world in the hermitage of himself.—Sir Thomas Browne.

Wit and humor belong to genius alone.—Cervantes.

News and Nonsense

By M. A. B.

Well! well! it wasn't Cadborosaurus that came to an untimely end near Prince Rupert. Victoria's own sea monster is still alive, as far as is known, and may be expected to make an unheralded appearance off Dallas Road at any time now. Dr. W. A. Clemens, director of the Pacific Biological Station at Nanaimo, says that the remains found by the Prince Rupert man are those of a cetorhinus maximus. Well, that sort of a name should be enough. Our "Caddy" is something different, according to those who have seen it at play. A "cetorhinus maximus" surely should cause some wonder. Reduced to common, understandable language, it is a basking shark. Being a shark, it is a fish, and not a mammal, the scientist declares. Now our Amy Cadborosaurus is different. The basking shark is a leisurely creature, and Victoria's pet is always in a hurry. So that is that.

No matter what the reaction may be in the United States to the acquittal of Samuel Insull, the verdict of the jury will do much to elevate the status of United States courts in other lands. It was generally regarded as a foregone conclusion, despite the merits of the case, that Insull would have but a little chance before a jury in Illinois, because of the manner in which the newspapers of the Republic had dealt with the subject matter of the trial before it reached the court. In returning a verdict of not guilty, the jurors have shown a commendable disregard for extraneous comment and prejudice. They should be congratulated.

To Canadians and British people generally, the manner in which persons accused of crimes that have attracted wide attention are held up before the public prior to trial is not understandable. One of the most glaring examples of this distinctly American trait was evidenced the other day when motion pictures were displayed showing the evidence gathered in the case against Hauptmann, charged with the abduction and murder of Baby Lindbergh. Modern practice in the United States would suggest that the theory of criminal law there is the antithesis of that of British countries, and that the accused is guilty until he proves his innocence.

The public has a right to be informed as to the proceedings of its legal institutions, but first consideration should be given to the principle that the state must prove its charge before there is a public suggestion of guilt.

The announcement that Captain Charles T. P. Ulm, the famous aviator, who will take off from British Columbia for Australia, is considering making a start on his heroic flight from Long Beach is of more than passing interest. It recalls that there is no road connection to this unique beach. The fact that the public is unable to enjoy the miles of sandy shoreline on the Pacific is a disgrace—a crime of omission.

Road connection should have been made to Long Beach years ago. There is no place on the whole of the British Columbia Coast, available to the general public, where tourists and residents of the Province can go to witness the waves of the Pacific roll over the sands. Long Beach should be connected by road to the Alberni district without loss of time. Tourist traffic alone would pay for the expenditure. It would be an investment—and a good investment.

Evidences on every hand show that the depression is fast waning. All the indices that tell of the condition of industry and commerce in Canada display steady advancement. The most satisfactory, however, is the figures made public by the British Columbia Government, showing a decline, during October, of 13,000 in the ranks of the unemployed. The world periodically enjoys prosperity and times of want and stagnation. History shows us that while prosperity crashes suddenly, the recovery that follows commences slowly and increases its tempo until it reaches a pitch which is featured by wild speculation and extravagance. Then it falls from the high point with a crash. The trouble is that people never seem to realize that there must be a sudden cessation of an era of wild and inconsiderate spending. The present depression—or as it is being referred to in many quarters, the late depression—reached its depth more than a year ago, in Canada. The return up the scale to more normal times is increasing, and with improved confidence in ourselves as a people; with renewed faith in our vast resources, the improvement will increase with the passing months. There will be no overnight prosperity, but gradual betterment of conditions—and such will indeed be welcome.

Mr. Tim Buck has been released from penitentiary. He was given a great welcome by his Communist friends and comrades of Toronto, who took good care to advise the reporters of the "capitalist press" of the arrival of Mr. Buck. It is strange, but even Communists do denounce the press realize the value of publicity, and the press that serves all classes of the community obliges. Such is true democracy.

SCOTCH MAGICIANS

Sir,—Pertaining to an announcement by William Harkness in The Colonist and The Times, while giving a magic turn at the Burns entertainment, I take exception to the misleading statement in which he claims to be the only Scotch magician on the Pacific Coast, as we have such talented men as Pete Fay, G. S. Little and Allan Lambie. The last-named has forgotten more about manipulation of magic than I, Harkness, or the rest of us will ever know, and further, self-praise is no commendation.

FRANCHISE FOR ORIENTALS

Sir,—With reference to the propaganda of Professor Angus and Dean Brock, who are so injudicious as to advocate publicly the franchise for Orientals. What they advocate is the foundation wedge of Communism (the brotherhood of man). At present this Oriental question is a provincial political issue, but nevertheless one that the Nordic race for more than 2,000 years has fought to keep in check.

Obviously democratic ideals among a homogeneous population of Nordic blood, as in England or in America, is one thing, but it is quite another for the white man to share his blood with, or entrust his ideals to, brown, yellow or red men. This is suicide pure and simple, and the first victim of this amazing folly will be the white man himself.

The Hawaiian Islands had practically no Japanese population in 1900, but in 1917 the Japanese birth-rate was 5,000, against the white birth-rate of 295 for the same year, and for 1934 the Japanese birth-rate will be approximately 25,000.

The Hawaiian present mixed population is as follows: Out of a population of 380,000, only 15,000 are Caucasians. There are 146,990 Japanese, 22,000 Hawaiians, 18,000 Asiatic-Hawaiians, 28,951 Portuguese and 26,942 Chinese.

Is this the future British Columbia that Messrs. Angus and Brock are looking forward to?

Mr. Editor, I would suggest that if the university students and the high school boys and girls of British Columbia would read "The Rising Tide of Color," by Lothrop Stoddard, that both Messrs. Angus and Brock would be wiser.

They would be wiser if they were only given a ride out of the province on a rail, and no doubt the students would take further steps to see that the right color be placed on the label of a political party in British Columbia, which is, to a large extent, being financed by Orientals. Surely the Minister of Education will not allow his high office, or the University of British Columbia, as well as the Liberal party, to be put in the ambiguous position that they endorse or condone the unfortunate actions of Messrs. Angus and Brock.

THE DOUGLAS SOCIAL CREDIT THEORY

Sir,—Recently I had the temerity to reply to Mr. John Bowen-Colthurst in very plain language and now Mr. Torey butts in and informs myself and others that I do not know what I am writing about, also personalities which do not add to the explanation of these theories. His remarks construed are to the effect that inflation is almost the same as robbery, although expressed in different language.

Have we not an instance of inflation by the work of the "brain trust" in the United States endeavoring to raise prices, and also to increase tariffs, which they are now reducing, after causing the loss of many millions of dollars, only showing that they had held of the "wrong end of the stick," and the reverse is now to be tried. Is not this a lesson against this theory and Mr. Torey?

Most of his letter is an attempt at being funny at my expense. To draw a red herring across the scent only causes me to follow it more closely. Ask any man of ability and experience what is one of the chief causes of the depression; and he will tell you that it is largely owing to inflation. Mr. Torey writes: "The Douglas proposals simply offer a monetary mechanism to make possible the creation of more wealth." Well, this is what counterfeiters and forgers do; therefore, by creating wealth the Douglas way, it is not genuine wealth as savings and improvement, etc. and if one does not call this theory robbery, the best construction to put upon it is that inflation and monetary mechanism are a very near relation to robbery.

In case Socialism and the Douglas theories came into power and government, Mr. Torey, as a "died-in-the-wool Tory" of the old school, better have a care that he and his party of theorists—mainly of the inflationist and monopolist type—do not fall into the net of the Socialists, as they are going to do already, although they don't seem to know it, and in fact helping them, so that when their time has come, instead of flitting with fictitious capital, Mr. Torey might find himself sweeping Pender and other streets by the order of the Socialist committee in power, while the aggressive Socialists take over the best positions.

I am not a Manchester man as suggested. I have not that honor, although I mostly agree with their economics, which at present are in abeyance and not abandoned as Mr. Torey thinks. Also, he may not know that the British Government—at times against its policy—has in war time and during commercial wars been obliged to adopt measures (necessary evils) such as high tariffs, etc., but is ready to revoke them when normal times prevail. Do not think, Mr. Torey, that Manchester and The Manchester Guardian have changed, as their trade principles are the same, although protection prevails at present. Still, what Manchester thinks today, England thinks tomorrow.

DOUGLAS SOCIAL CREDIT THEORY

Sir,—I was at a loss to understand why your correspondent, Mr. T. Swallow's letter, of November 8, was placed under the above heading. His letter was a defence of thrift, free trade and capitalism, but entirely misunderstood the social credit proposals. Social credit has nothing to do with Socialism. The word "Socialism" means a companion. Man is a social being, but not necessarily a Socialist, the latter term being one solely applicable to those who advocate community of property among all the citizens of a state.

Since the gigantic folly of self-destruction of the "war to end war," there has been a growing recognition of the fundamental brotherhood of man and the interdependence of nations. To no previous generation has straight thinking on money been so important as to ours. In 1916, the public debt of the United States was one and one-quarter billion dollars. It is expected to reach the sum of thirty-two billion dollars by the end of the present year.

In Canada, our national debt, less than one-half billion dollars in 1914, is now three billion.

The three expedients commonly advocated to get rid of this vast incubus of debt are:

1. Repudiation, as was done in Russia.

2. Inflation, as was done in Germany.

3. A capital levy and very heavy taxation, which finds its advocates mostly in Britain.

These three proposals are financially rather than economic expedients.

The problems of construction, which social credit proposals seek to meet, are:

1. To stimulate effective demand until it is equal to the existing capacity of industry to supply.

2. To expand the powers of consumers as industrial capacity expands.

3. To prevent present financial powers from wrecking any scheme which they imagine, rightly or wrongly, to prejudice their position.

There is a large and growing literature dealing with the social credit proposals. Mr. Arthur Kitson has been writing for forty years, showing the capricious character of a money system based on a foundation of gold.

The works of Major Douglas, Professor Soddy and many other writers are too numerous to mention. "This Age of Plenty," by Marshall Hattersley, now in its third edition, is, I think, the best book for beginners.

Possibly however, the inclinations of some of your readers tend more towards analyses of "contract bridge" rather than of "le contrat social," while others are confident that even if we are submerged beneath a deluge of debts and taxes, we can look forward to being rescued by the Vancouver Island Lifeboat Association.

DOUGLAS SOCIAL CREDIT

Sir,—My attention has been drawn to an editorial appearing in The Colonist of November 1, dealing with the Douglas social credit theory. As it is written on the assumption that Major Douglas has shown unwillingness to produce a detailed plan applicable to a particular country, may I point out that a plan has been published by him more than a year ago, applicable in this case to Scotland, and that you will find it in his book, "Social Credit." There is, moreover, a plan for Canada published in "Social Credit for Canada," by Mr. W. A. Tuttle, of Vancouver.

Now, if you purchase a copy of either of these books and have any difficulty in understanding them (if you find them "cryptic" in other words), but are still sincere in your determination "to form an opinion as to whether a man's ideas are right or wrong," as I am sure you are, may I suggest that you use the following thought as a key: Under the present financial system, a man may purchase an apple and consume it, or a suit of clothes and wear it, without any expense or charge to anyone else. But he cannot buy a factory or a railway, or any other capital product, and use it without charging the public, his customers, with depreciation costs, even if he does not make one cent of interest on his investment. If you doubt the accuracy of this assertion, ask a chartered accountant for his opinion. Now, no money exists today (we have only our wages, salaries and dividends to spend) to pay depreciation costs. Any Douglas plan brings this money into existence on the capital goods. In the second place, because machines displace men in industry and machines spend no wages to buy what they produce, any Douglas plan will bring enough money into existence, in addition to that issued for depreciation costs, to buy the product of the machine at the price demanded (the price being fixed between certain limits). This is, of course, the national dividend.

Hope that I have succeeded in making a Douglas plan a little less "cryptic" to you.

Philosophy's Story Is Told in Verse

(By DAVID CHRISTIE)

An old adage assures us that there is no royal road to learning. Is the truth of the adage being proved? School children are now being pampered with "A Box of Dates," a series of delightful rhymes making the learning of history dates easy and amusing. College students have just been furnished by Mr. S. E. Lang, a citizen of Victoria, with "The Story of Philosophy in Verse" (published by the Macmillan Company). This book is no less remarkable for its ability than for its audacity. No one who is not an enthusiast in philosophy would have ventured on such an enterprise. In anything from half a dozen to a score of smoothly rhyming lines, the system of each of the great philosophers is succinctly presented. As with a few master strokes the born artist portrays a face or a figure, this author with like deftness outlines the characteristic features of the great succession of thinkers in European philosophy. His style and his intellectual detachment may be illustrated in the lines:

What is the inner prompting that makes us believe or disbelieve what we believe or disbelieve? Between these rival theories, these strange conflicting views, Of how cognition operates, of how we come to know.

How we believe or disbelieve what we believe or disbelieve? It may be primal instinct, acquired twist or bent.

It may be private judgment, it may be temperament, Phlegm, cholera, melancholy, as old Galen might have taught:

It may be one or 't'other, or a mixture of the lot.

In the minds of those familiar with the subject this book will excite many thrills of appreciation, while for those who are entering on the labor of mastering the two and a half millennium of European philosophy, it will be a precious and indeed, a unique guide. And the ignorant man who opens its pages will not remain satisfied with the short catechism:

Q.—What is mind?

A.—No matter.

Q.—What is matter?

A.—Never mind.

The wind reached a maximum of forty miles an hour at spells last night, the weather bureau reported, in announcing that the blustery weather was fairly general from the mouth of the Columbia River to Prince Rupert.

The blustery weather in the southeast and assured Victoria of a continuance of mild weather for some time yet.

The Governor of West Virginia, while traveling through Arizona, noticed the dry, dusty appearance of the country.

Governor—Doesn't it ever rain here?

Native—Rain? Rain? Why, say, pardner, there's bullfrogs in this town over ten years that have not learned to swim yet.

Preparations Made To Revive Former Celebration Glory

Ambitious May 24 Celebration Programme Is Planned as Committees Are Appointed to Make Early Start on Arrangements

AT a representative gathering of delegates from 140 different organizations in the city held in the City Hall, last night, the wheels were put in motion for the formulation of an ambitious programme of events for the celebration of May 24, or Victoria Day.

A programme committee was formed, and the structure laid for the creation of a strong finance committee. A $5,000 programme is planned, with the city contributing $1,500 toward the budget.

Mayor David Leeming presided as chairman and urged those present, and the citizens at large in the Greater Victoria area, to rally to the support of the May 24 celebration and revive the old festivities that made this city such an attraction for tourists.

Besides properly commemorating the memory of the Queen after whom the city takes its name, the festivities would act as a splendid stimulant to business, he said.

As a result of his address, it was decided to hold a three-day celebration, commencing on May 23 and continuing on May 24 and 25.

PROGRAMME COMMITTEE
 The following were nominated to the programme committee, with Alderman T. W. Hawkins as chairman: Samuel Armstrong, Arthur Manson, Arthur H. Cox, W. H. Mearns, P. E. George, Mrs. L. A. Genge, Mrs. Alice McGregor, E. W. McMullen, T. R. Myers, General J. Sulherland Brown, E. H. Harris, C. H. French, Frank Paulding, Frank Waring, H. Thompson, Frederick Ramsdale, Warren Martin, E. M. Whyte, Norman Fraser, T. P. McConnell, Michael Cooper, chief of the Songhees Indians; Angus Chilton, Capt. R. W. McMurray, P. B. Fowler, Stanley Peale, C. F. Earle, P. C. Dillabough, F. C. Carter, C. F. L. Money, Thomas Hadfield, George Morvatt, P. B. Greach, V. E. Morrell, Cyril Warren, J. W. Buckler and William Marshall.

Alderman John Worthington was appointed chairman of the finance committee, and it was decided to ask the Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt Councils to name representatives on this committee, and that the chairmen of the various sub-committees form the membership of the finance committee.

A May Queen contest among children in the elementary schools was strongly recommended, and the finance committee was asked to take the matter under advisement as a means of raising funds, and also of first securing the support of the school board and parent-teacher associations throughout the city.

Support of these bodies also will be sought so that some of the children may participate in a large parade, which is proposed for the morning of May 24.

TENTATIVE PROGRAMME
 Mayor Leeming suggested as a tentative programme that the ceremony at Queen Victoria's monument on the morning of May 24 be featured more, and that greater stress be placed on the school sports on the afternoon of the same day, while in the evening, entertainment by massed orchestras and massed choirs as an indoor event be held.

On May 24 the big parade in the morning, sports and regatta in the afternoon and fireworks and other illuminations at night were suggested.

For May 25, street events, possibly freemen's contests and Scotch dances and other entertainment were proposed. A sports programme in the afternoon and special entertainment for the evening would round out the programme.

A publicity committee was appointed to see that the public were kept advised of the progress. This committee comprises the following: George Beck, Archie Wills, Victor Clark, George I. Warren, H. M. Diggon, Archie McKinnon and Alex Stewart.

Number of Radio Licences Issued On Increase Here

Through the division superintendent, E. J. Houghton, the radio branch, Department of Marine, yesterday gave out a statement showing the number of radio licences issued in Canada for the fiscal year 1934-35, up to October 31, 1934.

The total number of licences issued for the Dominion for 1934-35 is 642,389, compared with a total of 707,625 licences issued for the fiscal year 1933-34.

While the province of British Columbia shows a decrease in the number of licences issued this year, being 50,680, as compared with 55,978 for the preceding period, the cities of Victoria and Vancouver both show increases, Victoria having 8,746 licences at present, as against 7,781 a year ago, and Vancouver has 26,329, compared with 25,409 for the 1933-34 year. Prince Rupert, Prince George, Kamloops, Revelstoke, Nanaimo, Cranbrook and Fernie all show small gains.

GIVES TALK ON CREDIT SCHEME

Rev. F. W. McKinnon Defends Douglas Social Credit Plan

A great misconception as well as a misconception is abroad regarding the Douglas Social Credit. Rev. F. W. McKinnon told a meeting of the Douglas Social Credit group at a meeting held in the Union Building, last night.

It is said that the nationalization of money is robbery, as it would take money and credit from those who have been careful, saving and fortunate, and distribute it with those who have been the reverse, Mr. McKinnon asserted.

"Douglas Social Credit makes no such assault upon wealth. Major Douglas says 'the poor are not poor because the rich are rich, but there is abundance for all if we can distribute it intelligently,' the speaker continued.

NATIONALIZED MONEY
 "Douglas Social Credit does, however, purpose the nationalization of money, restoring the sole control of currency and credit to the people through their Government and abolishing the private monopoly of money which now exists. Canada's money today is in the hands of a private monopoly, the banks, and the bankers' first concern in carrying out of any policy is that profits must accrue from those policies. In other words, the national credit at present is controlled by a private monopoly, but Douglas Social Credit purposes to reinvest it in the people that constitute the treasury, Mr. McKinnon explained.

If this were done, this depression would vanish over night, he asserted.

SECOND PROPOSAL
 "The just price, the second proposal, does not seem to bother" so many, although Douglas Creditors would scarcely agree with the money interpretations of it. So we shall pass to the third, namely, "National Dividends." It is stated this, too, is robbery.

"Douglas Social Credit does not purpose taking one cent from those who have one, and may I here state that 9,000,000 persons in Canada have little or nothing today from which to give or to take. With the existence of 5,000,000 persons without any security; with 500,000 unemployed; a breadline that would stretch from Victoria to Calgary; with 254 units of Canada's productive equipment not in use, there does not seem much left to say against the Douglas Social Creditors' purpose to give and not take away," Mr. McKinnon stated.

NOT NEW PRINCIPLE
 "The national dividend proposed by Major Douglas is not new, at least its principle is not new. We see it in our old age pensions and the dole. Today, in England, they have what is known as The League to Abolish Poverty. This movement has among its leaders scores of outstanding citizens of England. Their aim is to abolish poverty by means of a national dividend," the speaker continued.

"Men have a moral and spiritual right to live, and, therefore, a moral right to purchasing power. If science is morally right in displacing human labor, then it is distinctly immoral that the individual so displaced, being merely a product of national progress, should be financially penalized. While economics of the old school taught that land, labor and capital were the only basis of wealth, the new economics say there is actually a fourth, namely, cultural heritage. Douglas Social Creditors say that everyone is born with a right to share in the plenty that his own ancestors, by their inventiveness, made possible; that everyone is an equal heir to the cultural heritage of the ages," Mr. McKinnon said.

"Adam Smith and the older economists wrote in an age of scarcity. We are living in an age of plenty. The new economists must reckon with the machine," Mr. McKinnon concluded.

WONDERS WHERE WORLD IS GOING

Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson Offers Advice to Gyros to Guard Against Dangers of Time

Addressing the Gyro Club in the Empress Hotel, yesterday, on the value and use of time, Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson said there was no adequate definition available for this word, yet it was one that in varying sense was used continuously. Without it, life in this state would be impossible. Where it came from none could tell.

Contrasting life at this time and that of our grandfathers, Dr. Wilson declared it was impossible to forecast what would happen in the future, with the rapidity of living that was ever increasing. With the aid of machinery, it was bewildering to contemplate what would result. A British member of Parliament had held up a silk shirt in the House of Commons and called to the attention of his fellow members that such a garment, made by a few girls with the aid of machinery in Japan, could be sold in London for a shilling.

The result of this rapid living was that there was a breaking down of the physical side of men. The increase in diseases of the heart and to other related ailments, as a result of the inability of the human frame to keep up with the stress of modern living, was a grave question which would have to be dealt with.

INSANITY INCREASES
 The increase in insanity cases in British Columbia showed that in ten years the increase had been such that one might wonder what would happen if a check were not made in this type of disease. It might reach a stage where the sane would not be enough to pay for the keep of the insane.

Offering advice along this line, the speaker admonished his hearers to decide what were the necessary things, and not to become lost in too great detail. The matter of selection was a great thing to attend to. It was well to have a few clear-cut principles by which one could weigh all things.

Dr. Wilson was glad to recall that the Gyros had made a name for themselves in the lines suggested. They had interested themselves in helping the social side, and should be praised for it.

The officer of the day was going his rounds when he saw that one of the sentries was a very raw recruit, who was having his first spell of guard duties. Determined to find out whether the young fellow understood his duties, he began to question him.

"If you saw a general approaching, what would you do?"

"Call out the guard," the recruit answered.

"Very good! And if you saw a battle cruiser coming across the parade ground, what would you do then?"

"Report to the hospital for mental examination," came the prompt reply.

A French writer says that Frenchmen should settle their differences in the English way, with fists, instead of fighting duels. Only drawback, of course, is that with fists someone's liable to get hurt.

Keeping our Railways busy . . . . is a long step toward general prosperity.

One of the purposes of these advertisements is to direct the thoughts of Canadians to the important part played in their daily lives by railways—to drive home the truth that, since no one in Canada, young or old, in country or in city, is independent of their services either for personal transportation or for the carriage of materials, it is of vital importance to the Dominion that railways should be maintained on a scale adequate to meet national requirements. Substitutes for rail transportation may from time to time be used but in the last analysis—and particularly for long distance hauls—it is to the railways, which day in and day out in all seasons and under all conditions carry out their appointed tasks, that the public looks for safe, speedy, reliable and economical transportation.

The measure of a railway's services is determined by the use which the public makes of them. In many respects the factors governing the operation of railways are the same as those in other businesses which depend on selling what they produce, and there must necessarily be a close connection between the amount of service a railway can provide and the amount for which it can find a market. In the end reduced transportation sales mean reduced railway services; increased sales mean expanding services.

Because of their nature and importance, any reduction of railway services involves inconvenience, perhaps actual hardship, somewhere. It also imposes additional cost on the remaining services. On the other hand a steady or increasing use of railways will enable not only adequate services to be maintained but will provide for their more economical operation. It will also stimulate business in every branch of industry by the direct help it gives, by the wages it pays to employees, and by its purchases of material.

For these reasons the C.N.R. is determined to get more business for all the services it operates . . . . more passengers . . . . more freight traffic . . . . more hotel guests . . . . more users of its telegraphs . . . . more packages for its express. This, of course, can only be done by giving patrons the highest possible value for their money — by making them glad to use the C.N.R. and to recommend it to others. This the C.N.R. has set out to do.

Your co-operation and patronage are respectfully invited. C.N.R. equipment is up-to-date; and C.N.R. employees are efficient and helpful. Use the C.N.R. for all transportation purposes — you will be satisfied.

Keeping our Railways busy . . . . is a long step toward general prosperity.

One of the purposes of these advertisements is to direct the thoughts of Canadians to the important part played in their daily lives by railways—to drive home the truth that, since no one in Canada, young or old, in country or in city, is independent of their services either for personal transportation or for the carriage of materials, it is of vital importance to the Dominion that railways should be maintained on a scale adequate to meet national requirements. Substitutes for rail transportation may from time to time be used but in the last analysis—and particularly for long distance hauls—it is to the railways, which day in and day out in all seasons and under all conditions carry out their appointed tasks, that the public looks for safe, speedy, reliable and economical transportation.

In his youth, he was a clever dancer of Scotch reels, sword dance, and other dances. To those who knew him intimately he took pleasure in relating an experience

Mr. Wilson was predeceased in 1917 by his wife, who was a daughter of the late Alex Munro, well-known pioneer. He leaves to mourn his loss one daughter, Miss Wilson, at the family residence, 730 Burdett Avenue.

Honorary Colonel Presents Awards to Members of Canadian Scottish

COL. THE HON. R. R. BRUCE

Claymores and bayonets flashed in the light; military orders echoed throughout the large Armories on Bay Street, and 100 khaki and tartan-clad members of the 1st Battalion, Canadian Scottish Regiment, paraded, last night, before their honorary-colonel, Hon. R. Randolph Bruce, former Lieutenant-Governor.

After a formal inspection of the regiment, Colonel Bruce officiated at the presentation of the Mary Otter Shield and other trophies won by the unit's stretcher bearers, and commissions and efficiency medals.

In presenting the Mary Otter Shield, posted annually for competition between all naval and military forces in the Dominion, Colonel Bruce said this was the first time the trophy had been won by a non-permanent unit in Western Canada. He paid high tribute to the winning team, comprising Acting Sergeant Wallace Allison, captain; Acting Sergeant Johnson Dodson, Acting Sergeant Edward Wilkinson and Corporal Ernest Day, and gave a special prize to their instructor, Company Sergeant-Major E. J. Harwood.

PRaises WINNERS
The St. John Ambulance Society Shield, emblematic of the provincial championship, was also presented to the team, and each member received a trophy and best wishes of the honorary officer.

"We are very proud of you. It has been well worth my while coming all the way across Canada to present you with these awards," Colonel Bruce said, in addressing himself to the stretcher bearers.

Turning to the regiment, he told them he was pleased to again be among them, and was honored to be their honorary colonel. He was cheered by the men and officers as he left the parade field.

OTHER AWARDS
In recognition of his twenty years of service, Captain D. O. Thomas was presented with the long service medal by Colonel Bruce. Acting Band Sergeant H. Holder and Corporal Piper W. Marrs received efficiency medals for their ten years of service.

Saluting their inspecting officer with precision, Lieutenant W. H. Parker received his commission as captain, Lieutenant P. Horne received his certificate of qualification for Vickers and revolver training, while commissions were handed to the following Second-Lieutenants: S. J. McDonald, A. C. Round, W. J. McEldale, F. F. Beckett and R. H. Tye.

Platoon drill was ordered following the presentations, and while Colonel Bruce viewed the manoeuvres, and listened to the pipe band, he was joined by Colonel D. B. Martyn, officer commanding the regiment, and his officers, and officers of the 2nd Battalion, Canadian Scottish Regiment.

What Today Means
"SAGITTARIUS"
If November 27 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 to 10:45 a.m., from 2:45 to 4:45 p.m. and from 6:45 to 8:45 p.m. The danger periods are from 7:45 to 9:45 a.m. from 12:45 to 2:45 p.m. and from 8:45 to 10:45 p.m.

On this November 27 you may be subjected to a very unreasonable demand. By keeping your temper and offering a logical reason for the difficulty you might find to comply with it, the person making it is likely to be made to see the light of reason. Constructive plans made on this date for business transactions will probably prove fruitful earlier than anticipated. Be careful not to condemn as not up to the standard something you may purchase, upon a superficial examination. For this might turn out to be a mistake after a thorough examination is made. If invited out you will display good judgment to abide strictly by the laws prescribed by conventionality, both in dress and deportment, as a stickler for both is likely to be among those present. Married and engaged couples, as well as those matrimonially inclined, will make a brighter day of this if they will express their sentimental claims by deeds instead of only by words. The bestowal of some little attention of a personal nature might be greatly appreciated. If a woman and November 27 is your birthday, your mental and physical alertness should develop into marvelous assets, for through them your capability may gain recognition that might lead to gratifying financial results. Outdoor sports will be beneficial for one of your nature. Domestic science, social welfare, educational and literary work all offer exceptionally good opportunities, if taken up seriously and enthusiastically. As a wife you should prove marvelously successful. It might be best, however, that you have a home of your own, so you can regulate it according to your own ideas.

The child born on November 27, generally when it reaches school age, is capable of more than holding its own in both schoolroom and sports. Regular hours for meals and bedtime are desirable for this child's physical development.

If a man and November 27 is your natal day, you will be wise to remember exercise in moderation is a very good thing, but if overdone can prove harmful. Your nervous energy might be used to better advantage if you do not let it tempt you undertaking too many things at the same time. If you learn to conserve it there may be no limitations as to the results to be secured.

Byrd Claims Newly-Discovered Section of Country in Antarctica for United States

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica,
Nov. 25 (via MacKay Radio): Delayed; AP).—A newly-discovered section of land in Antarctica was claimed for the United States, today, by Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd.

A huge stretch of ice-covered Antarctic wastes, which previously had been considered to be over water, was said by Byrd to be land. He made this announcement in a radio message to President Roosevelt, following a flight east into Marie Byrd Land.

He brought back with him conclusive evidence that Marie Byrd Land runs in an unbroken line from the Antarctic Coast to the South Pole, and that a trans-Arctic strait does not exist. Byrd declared it is all land "overwhelmed by ice, to be sure, but land, anyhow."

Schooner White Cloud and Ketch Fayaway, Overdue Yachts, Found—Fifteen Persons on Board

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (AP).—Two disabled yachts, missing on the Atlantic with fifteen persons aboard, were found early today.

The schooner White Cloud, her steering gear disabled on a scientific and treasure hunting expedition to the Spanish Main, was located 300 miles northeast of Puerto Rico by the S. S. Rangitata. The steamer, which wirelessed Coast Guards that it was standing by, gave no details. Eleven men are on the White Cloud.

Creeping shoreward with only a stayail, the ketch Fayaway was found by the Coast Guard cutter Mascoutin thirty-five miles off Chesapeake light vessel, near Norfolk, Va. A family of four was aboard.

Five navy and two Coast Guard airplanes drilled back and forth off the New Jersey Coast, yesterday, looking for the ketch which had been disabled when last heard from three days before. The Mascoutin and four other cutters from Norfolk searched farther south.

Co-operation of Sexes Needed in Public Life

Mrs. D. L. MacLaurin, Candidate for School Trustee, Addresses Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club—Business Matters Are Discussed by Members

"I never have been, and I think I never shall be one of those extreme feminists who say, with more emphasis than elegance, 'the men have made a mess of things, sweep them all out of office and see what the women can do,'" declared Mrs. D. L. MacLaurin, candidate for school trustee in the civic elections, during the course of her first presentation address given to the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club, last evening.

Continuing, Mrs. MacLaurin said, "I do not think any woman—or man—who stirs up antagonism between the sexes a safe leader to follow. There is one thing, however, I believe necessary for all of us as women to consider, and one in which I understand this club is especially interested, and that is, this whole matter of woman's status. There is no doubt that the blows of the reactionary forces which are re-subjugating womanhood in Europe are having their first faint repercussions on this side of the water, and if we more fortunate women are to consolidate and improve the position of comparative freedom so hardly won for us, we shall need to re-examine and reaffirm the ground whereon we stand."

Clearly and logically, Mrs. MacLaurin told of her attitude towards women in public life, and of what could be accomplished through the co-operation of men and women working together.

TRIBUTE TO U.S.A.

"It is not significant," asked Mrs. MacLaurin at one point, "as we look out on world affairs, that the very nations which are the greatest threat to world progress, the nations which menace all that we hold fine in civilization, are those which are re-subjugating women, while the one bright ray of hope, the one nation to which all eyes turn for its promise of resourceful leadership, is the one which is daily according to women a greater measure of opportunity, of recognition and of honor, the United States of America."

In the general discussion following the address, Mrs. MacLaurin answered many questions put to her by the members, and expressed the opinion that this was no time for any drastic changes or undue expense which might be entailed in establishing a technical school or home economics department. The members of the club, who are enthusiastic in supporting Mrs. MacLaurin, expressed their thanks to her for the extremely interesting talk.

Prior to the address, a business meeting was held, Mrs. M. Hall the president, in the chair. Miss Shaw gave a report of the recent bridge party, and she and her committee were accorded a special vote of thanks. A letter will be forwarded to the Ottawa club expressing greetings upon its joining the Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

The sum of $20 was voted to the Friendly Help Welfare Association and $10 to the Women's Workroom, while an additional $20 will be devoted to the club's Christmas cheer fund.

The forthcoming inter-empire debate on December 3, in the Chamber of Commerce, was discussed, and a letter was read regarding the proposed visit to Victoria of some 2,000 women who will be attending the Pan-Pacific convention of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, in Seattle, in July, 1935.

Mrs. James A. Bland was warmly thanked for her splendid account of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club, which is to be forwarded to Winnipeg to be included in the federation archives.

It was decided that the club should send an official representative to the Social Workers' Council, the president being named.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the members were the guests of Miss Pogson for refreshments, in the Belmont Coffee Shop.

St. Andrew's Ball to Be At Empress

Scots took themselves never overlook a Scottish anniversary of importance, but the rest of the world is not always so attentive. It is interesting, therefore, that the Empress Hotel, for the first time, is holding a celebration of St. Andrew's Day with a "St. Andrew's Ball," on Friday evening, which will be completely Scottish in atmosphere and detail.

The ballroom will be arranged as for a cabaret, and during the evening, between general dancing for the guests, there will be a number of exhibitions. Highland bagpipes, Scottish reels, sailors' hornpipes, the sword dance and eightosomes and fourosomes. Those of the public who are familiar with the steps will be invited to participate in some of the square dances, for which pipe music will be provided.

"THE CHILD"

By REGINALD H. WIGGINS, M.D., C.M., L.M.C.C.

"MOTHERHOOD OR MOTHERLESS?" One of America's twelve greatest women, Grace Abbott, who is head of the Bureau of Child Welfare for the United States, has stated that in that country 200,000 babies are sacrificed yearly for want of proper care and feeding.

Sacrificed! Killed in a more appropriate term. Killed because the young mother was ignorant of the proper care and feeding of her baby. The great majority of those babies could have been saved. "By what? By knowledge of child care. Yet we withhold this knowledge from our girls—criminal! Why every sane parent with daughters who will not see that this instruction is given, should immediately put in his or her application for admission to the penitentiary or the insane asylum."

"My daughter is adequately informed at home," I have heard frequently. As the result of an extensive survey, it was found that approximately ninety per cent of girls had no adequate instruction in their homes on sex life, parentage, procreation, birth, nor on the proper care and training of her future children.

Again, in the last fourteen years, in the United States the same number of mothers—200,000—have died giving birth to their children. This calamity, too, could largely have been prevented had the prospective mother known something of antenatal care and had she been attended by a doctor, trained and skilled in the art of delivering babies.

Now will anyone say that instruction to our daughters—our future mothers—on the proper care and training of their children (to be) is not imperative and vital to life. I trust that no one will speak, as I have nearly exhausted my store of expressive facts.

Tomorrow's article: "How and Where to Train Future Mothers."

The annual musical evening sponsored by the Junior Women's Missionary Society of the Metropolitan Church took place on Saturday, and proved an even more delightful occasion than usual.

The guest speaker was F. T. C. Each of these contributed most delightfully to the interesting programme, with Miss Grace Allen, Miss Phyllis Dilworth, Miss Isabel Pike and Miss Katherine Hole acting as accompanists.

A very simple question.

The characteristic feature of an opening bid of four in a major is that the hand may be quite useless in defence. It should not be raised unless the responding hand can see the method whereby the opposition can take two tricks in the other's three suits.

Circles Will Convene Work At Christmas

The district meeting of the King's Daughters was held yesterday afternoon in the restrooms, with the president, Mrs. L. H. Hardie, in the chair. The Christmas work will be convened, as usual, by the various circles this year, and the restrooms will be decorated under the direction of Miss Kathleen Roberts, for the Christmas season. ## Amusing Stories Told of Princess

LONDON, Nov. 26 (AP).—Princess Marina—who, the public learned today, was a headstrong and even a sometimes naughty little girl during her childhood in Athens—was guest of honor tonight at a brilliant dinner party in Buckingham Palace since the Great War. Three crowned heads were among the gathering of royalty at the function, the first of a series preceding Princess Marina's marriage on Thursday to the Duke of Kent. A book called "The Authorized Story of Princess Marina," published today, made known to an eagerly-amused public that Princess Marina once sat down on the street car tracks in Athens and refused to budge because her pet dog had been crossed. Then, according to the book, she repeated the performance a couple of days later despite a warning from her father, Prince Nicholas, that she would be spanked. Another time she "threw her Greek grammar out the window, then wept tears of repentance; not because she was sorry at the deed, but because the book struck her favorite dog and hurt him."

These anecdotes, quoted from a former English nurse and governess, Kate Fox, now living in Surrey, were added to the public's sum of knowledge concerning the beautiful young woman who is receiving the nation's highest honors as the bride-to-be on Thursday of the Duke of Kent, Prince George of Greece, at the wedding.

ROYAL VICTORIA THEATRE ENGAGED

Dr. Clem Davies to Hold Services in Larger Quarters to Accommodate Audiences

As evidence of the increasing popularity of Dr. Clem Davies' Sunday services at the Empire Theatre, it is difficult for those arriving after 7:20 o'clock to obtain seats. The service was originally scheduled to commence at 7:30, but it has been necessary for the past several Sundays to begin at 7:20.

On Sunday last, large numbers were turned away, and have been decided to transfer the services to the Royal Victoria Theatre, where, it is felt, ample accommodation can be provided.

The new arrangement will go into effect next Sunday. It will be recalled that for over seven years Dr. Davies preached to capacity audiences in the Royal Victoria Theatre. Frequently hundreds were unable to gain entrance to the building after the time of starting the services.

SECOND CHARGE IS NOT PRESSED

Attorney-General Allows Stay of Proceedings Against J. William Maynard

The charge against J. William Maynard, of having failed to keep books showing his transactions as required by one carrying on trade where the amount of more than $1,000 is concerned, was not proceeded with in the County Court, here, when the case was called yesterday. — Cleve G. White, who appeared for the Crown in connection with the case, informed Judge P. S. Lampman that he had the authority of the Attorney-General to ask for a stay of proceedings on this charge.

It was explained that on the other charge which was tried here before Judge J. N. Ellis in October, in which the accused had been convicted of defrauding an aged couple by using their property for his own purposes, Maynard had been sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. He was now serving time on that conviction.

The present charge could be brought forward at any time and proceedings against the accused could go on with. For the present, the Attorney-General asked for a stay of proceedings.

THAT DEPRESSED FEELING IS LARGELY LIVER

Wake Up Your Liver Bile... Without Calomel, And Feel Like a Million Dollars.

Nothing can put your system out of kilter more quickly than your liver. All it has to do is stop pouring its daily two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels—and life certainly gets grey. That sluggish flow of bile slows up digestion and elimination and makes you "feel pink." Your stomach acts up—gas, bloating, sourness, pain. Your breath is bad and the taste in your mouth is nasty. Your head aches. This is a blotchy, all of course, because your system is full of poisons.

More bowel moves like salts, oil, mineral water, roughage, laxative candy or chewing gum are not good enough to correct this condition entirely. You're lousy and you must wake up your liver bile to be happy again.

Avoid calomel (mercury). The thing for you is a box of Carter's Little Liver Pills. They never upset you because they're purely vegetable, gentle and safe, but how they do change your view on life!

Don't waste your money on substitutes. Be definite. Ask for Carter's by name—and get them! Look for the name, Carter's, on the red label. 25c. at all druggists.

CHAPTER XLIV
As soon as they reached her room, Joan called up Nancy, and when she got her, she announced breathlessly, "This is Joan... Joan Dudley." "My dear... how unexpected and splendid! How did it happen?" "I've come—to eat the apple..." Joan's laugh tinkled across the wire. She had a sudden uplift of spirits. "Nancy, where's Drew?" "He's somewhere about. I'll have him paged. And may I come around, and we'll go down and have tea? There are some dancers who are superb. You aren't tired, are you?" "No. We motored up. I'll tell you about it."

"It is really you?"

breens. But if you're going to eat the apple, we must have you say and gossamer. "I don't want to seem to forget poor Aunt Adelaide," Joan explained, "for, after all, she loved me."

"She'll never be the wiser," said Nancy with a touch of flippancy. "If she's in heaven or the other place, she's not thinking of clothes."

As they sat down together, Nancy said, "I've reserved a table. And the boy is looking for Drew."

"Probably Rose Carter has found him."

Nancy stared at her. "Rose Carter?" Joan nodded. "I motored up with her."

"Rose...?" Joan explained. "She says Drew wrote to her to come."

Nancy said, with calmness, "She lies."

Joan's heart jumped. "Nancy, he must have said something."

"Nothing that she could twist into such a meaning. He adores you, Joan. You needn't be jealous."

"I'm not." But even as she said it she knew that she was jealous. "I'm not," she confessed, "horribly so. She confessed, honestly, 'It will be deadly, having Rose here. I wanted you and Drew to myself.'"

"You'll have us. Heavens, child, haven't you grasped the fact that there's no one else for Drew?"

They had come into the dining-room and had made their way to a table, which with others encircled a floor cleared for dancing. There were many tables and many people—a brilliant cosmopolitan crowd.

Joan had scarcely time to glance at them, when the room was plunged suddenly into darkness, except for a spotlight which shone on the cleared space of polished floor.

And into that space moved presently, to the click of castanets, two dancers—a marvelous pair—she with her wide lace skirt looped with roses, her slender waist, her smooth hair. He, slim in his tight trowsers of claret velvet, his sash, his gold-embroidered jacket, his black head shining, his saturnine face calm and composed except for his quizzing eyes.

There was the thrum of guitars... a throbbing note... the dancers swayed and dipped. The light followed them, caught the faces of the people in the surrounding darkness, and showed them intent, watching that passionate drama in the ring.

Among those who showed in that circle of light was Drew Hallam. Joan recognized him with a quick beat of the heart. He was leaning forward in his chair, his fingers about the stem of his wine glass, his eyes following eagerly the movement of the dipping, dancing figure in the wide lace skirt.

Here was no forlorn lover sighing to the moon! Drew was the picture of smug satisfaction. Why should Nancy have painted him in such sombre colors? Despairing? Desperate?

The light traveled on, following the dancers, and now it was Joan whom it picked out, shining full upon her, framing her face as it had framed her lover's, showing her pure as a nun in her black coil.

Drew saw her and caught his breath. He did not believe in the least that it was Joan. It was of course a hallucination, born of his thought of her.

Yet, if it were? He jumped to his feet—and just then a page, leaning over him, gave him Nancy's message.

He followed the boy, and arriving presently at his sister's table, bent down to Joan. "Is it really you?" She said, with a touch of frigidity, "No."

"And not a ghost?" "Why didn't you tell me?" "I wanted a surprise."

He dropped into the chair beside her. "I saw you from the other side of the room as the light passed you."

"I saw you." "Joan—are you glad?" He found her hand and held it. Nancy's voice broke in. "What do you think, Drew? Joan motored up with Rose Carter. And Rose said you had written."

"I had," calmly. His clasp tightened on Joan's hand as she tried to withdraw it.

going to keep you here—forever— She fought for composure. "You can't keep me if I don't want to stay."

"You will want to stay," He rose: "You won't mind if I leave you, Nancy?"

"I shall mind. But I knew from the first that it was inevitable." Nancy's light laughter followed them.

As they came out into the lights of the lobby, Drew asked, "Where can we be alone?"

"Why be alone?" Joan demanded. He laughed a little. "If you don't know—why tell you?"

A silence while his eyes held hers, then she surrendered. "I've a sitting-room. And Farley can play chaperone."

"Do we need a duenna? Well, perhaps, in Spain."

In the hour she had to herself Farley had made Joan's sitting-room a place of beauty. She had ordered flowers and set them about so that there was the fragrance of them and the color. On the wide seat below the windows which looked out on the mountains, she had flung an apple-green cushion, and with the pink of the acaenas which bloomed on a table beside it, the effect was spring-like and charming.

"Take off your hat," Drew commanded, "and let me see your hair."

Joan lifted it, and touched her locks lightly. "Am I all right?" "With these—" he picked up a bunch of violets from a bowl on the table and wiped the stems on his handkerchief. "Come here," he commanded.

As Joan went towards him, he spoke to Farley, who was moving quietly about in the adjoining room. "Can you get me a pin?"

She brought a big one and retired discreetly. She had the effect outwardly of composure, but within she was much disturbed. So here were the Hallams again! And he with his love-making! And heaven only knew what would happen to the child if he married him.

Drew arranged the flowers in a shoulder-knot, touched them to his lips and pinned them to Joan's gown. He did it expertly, and smiled into her upraised eyes. "That's better," he said, and then suddenly his voice broke and he caught her to him. "I've been starved for you, starved."

When an hour later Drew went away, Joan sought out the maid. "Farley," she said, and her voice caught. "Farley, I'm going to be married."

There was a short and significant pause before Farley asked, "To Mr. Hallam, Miss Joan?"

"Yes. In April, Farley."

There was anxiety in the older woman's eyes. "Are you sure you know your own mind, Miss?"

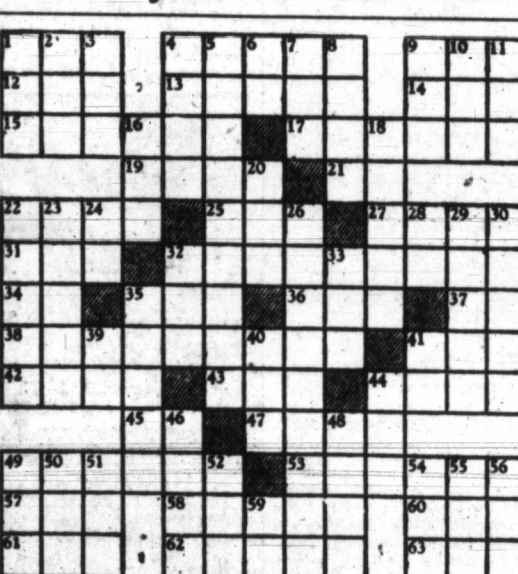

"Of course."

Farley moved about the room, beating up the cushions, then suddenly she turned and faced her mistress. "I know it isn't my place, Miss Joan. But I haven't any other. And marriage is a solemn thing."

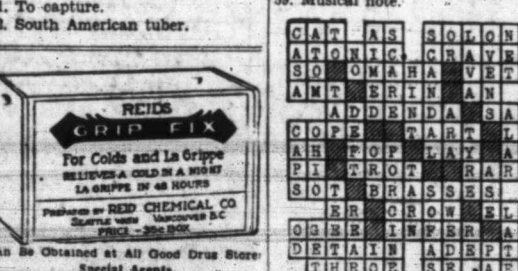

Joan stared at her for a moment, then she flung her arms about the other's neck. "Wish me happiness, Farley," she said, "I want it so—I want it."

Fivepin Bowler Scores 1,021 in League Fixture

SASKATOON, Nov. 25 (CP).—What is believed to be a record for fivepin bowling in Western Canada was set here tonight when Dr. Eddie Nagle compiled a score of 1,021 in a senior fivepin match. Nagle rolled scores of 346, 338 and 337 to run up his huge total.

NEUSEL HELD TO DRAW BY LEN HARVEY

German and Englishman Battle to No-Decision—Verdict Is Boiled

LONDON, Nov. 26 (CP).—Len Harvey, England's light-heavyweight champion, held Walter Neusel, of Germany, to a draw in a twelve-round bout, tonight, at Wembley Stadium. It was Harvey's best stand since he lost his British and Empire heavyweight title to Jack Petersen early this year.

Both weighed in without stripping. Harvey tipping the scales at 182 and Neusel at 200.

A crowd of 12,000, the largest that ever attended an indoor fight card in this country, booted the referee's decision, apparently in the belief that Harvey piled up sufficient points in the first four rounds and the last four to earn him the verdict. The battle was staged in the new Stadium Building, where swimming events are held.

Neusel tried to force the fight in the early rounds, but Harvey kept on the German with a stinging left and scored with both hands from close range. Neusel found the range after the fourth, but the British tied him up thereafter. The referee continually warned the pair for holding.

Swimming Body Receives Cup

MONTREAL, Nov. 26 (CP).—The E. W. Beatty Trophy, originally presented by the president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company as a provincial trophy, has been handed over to the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association for annual award to the Dominion's outstanding swimmer, officials of the Quebec section of the C.A.S.A. announced today.

WORD O' PRAISE

The great Red Grange, who is rated by many as the best ball-carrier American gridiron ever produced, calls Beattie Feathers, Chicago Bears' star, the best halfback he ever saw.

Jackson and Horner in Action

Heading down the N.H.L. puck-chasing trail with a seven-game winning streak, Toronto Maple Leafs promise to be a mighty stumbling block to Stanley Cup aspirants this season. Here are two of the Leaf fire-eaters in action, with Harvey Jackson, great left winger of the ex-kind line snaring the puck while Red Horner, hard-bumping defence pepper-pot, hurdles his stick. The kid line has been superseded in the Leaf camp by a new infant line, while the Jackson-Primmer-Conacher trio have attained the status of veterans. Busher Jackson is going great guns, however, and Horner, one of the most aggressive rearwards in the game during former seasons, is bumping opposing attackers with his old abandon. This pair promise to make themselves prominent in sport headlines during the 1934 campaign.

Feminine Hoop Teams To Break From A.A.U.

British Columbia Squads Will Not Affiliates With Women's Union—Refuse to Take Out Amateur Cards—Men's Quintettes May Follow Suit

VANCOUVER, Nov. 26 (CP).—Feminine hoop players in British Columbia today made the first definite break in Canadian basketball's relations with the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada. It was announced that women basketball players on the Coast had decided not to affiliate with the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation of Canada and will not take out amateur cards direct from the A.A.U. of C., as had been done previously.

Ken Walton, secretary of the British Columbia Amateur Basketball Association, made the announcement following a mail vote of women's basketball clubs in British Columbia.

STILL IN DOUBT

In the meantime, the status of men's basketball clubs in the province remains the same, pending receipt of final results on a mail vote whether the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association will sever connections with the A.A.U. of C. British Columbia and Alberta basketball associations submitted resolutions to the Canadian organizations recommending such a step, and a mail vote was ordered. Vice-President Walter Hardwick of the C.B.A. announced tonight that the vote had been completed, and that the associations known when all the votes had been received.

GREENSHIRTS WILL BATTLE THISTLES XI

Soccer Leaders to Clash at Athletic Park—City to Meet Dockers

Leaders of the first division football league for many weeks, Saanich Thistles will meet their toughest opponents, Saturday, when they battle the Victoria West eleven, second berth occupants, at the Royal Athletic Park, in what is billed as the football tit-bit for the week-end. In the other first division fixture, Victoria City, sitting in third place, will meet the cellar-occupant Esquimalt squad at Heywood Avenue.

Robb will referee at the enclosure and "Scotty" Downs at Heywood Avenue. Both matches will commence at 2:30 o'clock.

With but two points separating them from the lads bearing the suburban moniker, the greenshirts can go into a tie for first place by taking the Thistles into camp. Only a few weeks ago the Wests eliminated the Saanich eleven from the Milton Cup series, and with practically the same line-up available for Saturday's match the greenshirts feel confident of repeating.

Roy Barnes, out of action for many weeks with an injured ankle, is not expected to get into Saturday's line-up, while Ernie Betteridge, inside forward, is out of the city. Lorandini, aggressive half-back, is back in town and will be on the starting line-up and is expected to start at centre-half.

CITY MEETS ESQUIMALT

Victoria City, who showed remarkable form last week by registering a 5-2 victory over Esquimalt in the Milton Cup semi-final, will be strong favorites to take the boys from the dockyard village for another ride when the clubs meet at Heywood Avenue. Champions last season, Esquimalt have shown poor form so far this year, and to date have only scored one victory in the Victoria and District Football League.

SECOND DIVISION

Victoria City and the Saanich Thistles second division elevens will meet at Beacon Hill, upper ground, at 2:30 o'clock, with "Scotty" McKay as referee. On Sunday, Victoria West will journey to James Island to meet the powdermen on their home grounds. R. Alcock will referee and the game will start at 2 o'clock.

RUTH HITS HOMER

KOKURA, Japan, Nov. 26 (AP).—Home runs by Babe Ruth and Earl Averill gave the touring American League baseball team an 8-1 victory over the Nippon All-Stars before a crowd of 25,000 here, today.

Bob Wagner and McDonald May Be Rematched Here

EFFORTS to rematch Danny McDonald, clever Toronto wrestler, and Bob Wagner, smart New Hampshire mat man, in the main event of Saturday's wrestling card at the Victoria arena were being made today by local promoters.

Fans who saw the pair in action last week have been clamoring for a rematch, and today Promoter Fred Richardson expects word to say that the bout will go on. Last Saturday's match between Wagner and McDonald ended suddenly in the fourth round when the New Hampshire wrestler injured his groin after landing on the south ropes. While the bout lasted, it was one of the most colorful and clearest seen here for many a day, and its abrupt ending was disappointing to the many fans who had been kept on their toes throughout. If the local promoters are successful in securing the rematch, the boys will appear in the main event of eight ten-minute rounds.

COWICHAN XV BEATS LOCALS

Up-Island Ruggers Register 6-0 Decision Over Oak Bay Wanderers

DUNCAN, Nov. 26.—Cowichan Rugby footballers defeated Victoria Wanderers, here, yesterday, in a match played at the cricket grounds, by a score of six points to nil.

Half-time found the teams in a scoreless deadlock, although both squads threatened on several occasions. Cowichan pressed strongly, but although a number of five-yard scrums were forced, their efforts each time just fell short of a score. Wanderers put on a very pretty three-quarter attack in this half, traveling more than two-thirds of the length of the field before being halted within a few feet of the touch line. The home team defence was strong and the threat was thwarted.

After the interval, Cowichan swept down in an irresistible rush, and Lundy finished a brilliant three-quarter attack by going over for a touchdown near the touch line. The try at goal failed to add the extra points. After the kick-off, Cowichan started another procession toward the goal line, and Collier, the home team hunky ball carrier, went over once more with several Wanderers struggling valiantly to bring him down. The try at goal was fruitless.

Wanderers almost broke into the score column near the end of the game. Awarded a penalty kick when deep in Cowichan's territory, the ball hit the goal post and bounded back into the field of play. The strong defensive kicking of Fletcher for the local team was a feature of the game. G. D'Arcy was the referee.

STRONG TEAMS TO COMPETE FRIDAY AT THE ARMORIES

University of British Columbia Sending Formidable Squad for Third Annual Meeting Against Y.M.C.A.—Kiwanis Club Staging Event for Charity—Trophy to Be Presented

Victoria's third indoor track meeting will be presented at the Bay Street Armories, Friday night, with athletes from University of British Columbia clashing with the local Y.M.C.A. in the feature events. The opening event will get under way at 8:15. Proceeds from the event will be donated to charity by the Kiwanis Club, under whose direction the affair will be presented. Last year the delegation from the Point Grey institution carried off the lion's share of the glory, but Coach Archie McKinnon has been training his representatives for the past fortnight with hopes of lifting most of the honors.

During the course of the evening, Mayor David Leeming will present the Aldous Trophy to Joe Addison, Y.M.C.A. sprinter, who represented Victoria at the Hamilton trials and British Empire Games in London last Summer. This trophy is given annually by the Y.M.C.A. for the athlete displaying the finest sportsmanship during the year.

The feature events will be the 220, 440 and half-mile races, in which some of the fastest sprinters in the province will be facing the barrier. Altogether there is twenty-four events scheduled, which means the crowd is in for a fine evening of entertainment and action.

EXPLANATION FOR SUNDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON
The Oldest Old Maid—Mrs. Marguerite Chemin, daughter of Leonard and Claudine Chemin, of Belmont, France, who has been referred to as the oldest "old maid" in the world, was born on January 9, 1784, and died in 1914 at the venerable age of 130 years. It has long been believed and printed that there were no centenarians outside of marriage. Miss Chemin, who prided herself greatly upon being an exception to that rule, bore her distinction for many long years with dignity and cheerfulness.

JACKSON SETTING FAST PACE IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

Holds Three-Point Lead Over Charlie Conacher in Race

Toronto's Great Winger Out in Front With Nine Goals and Four Assists—Larry Aurie First in American Division—Sorrell and Weiland Well Up—Horner Leads in Penalties

MONTREAL, Nov. 26 (CP).—One amazing twenty minutes in which he scored four goals against St. Louis, put Harvey Jackson, Toronto Maple Leafs left winger, far in the lead in National Hockey League scoring, the weekly statistics issued tonight showed. "Busher" Jackson now has most goals and most points with nine goals, four assists, thirteen points, and leads his teammate, Charlie Conacher, by six goals and three points. Larry Aurie, of Detroit, holds third place with two goals and seven assists. Toronto and Detroit, finalists for the N.H.L. championship last spring, are waging a great fight this season for individual supremacy in scoring. The United States section lists show six Detroit sharpshooters in the leading seven. Detroit has scored twenty-two goals in seven games to twenty-three in an equal number of games for the Maple Leafs.

TWO ARE TIED
Johnny Sorrell and Conney Weiland are tied for second place in their section, a point behind Aurie. Little Tommy Cook, of Chicago Black Hawks, is the player who prevents Detroit from holding a complete monopoly among the leaders. With seven points he is tied with Herbie Lewis, of Wings, followed by Wiseman and Eddie Goodfellow, also of Detroit.

The gap in the Canadian section between the two leaf marksmen and the pack is wide. Earl Robinson, Montreal Maroons' left winger, is third with four goals, one assist. Red Horner, of Leafs, has resumed his familiar position as leader in penalties, with twenty-five minutes. Other high men are: Northcott, Montreal, twenty-four; Bowman, St. Louis, twenty-one; Barry, Boston, twenty-four; and Goodfellow, Detroit, twenty-three.

Torchy Peden Wins Milwaukee Six-Day Event by Full Lap

Victoria Rider and Partners, Jules Audy and Henri LePage, Finish on Top of Field After Thrilling Night of Racing—German Team Second

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 26 (AP).—Clinging to the lead of one lap they picked up in the last three hours of riding, the Canadian six-day bicyclists—the veteran Torchy Peden, the blond Jules Audy and the fiery Henri Le Page—tonight won Milwaukee's fourth international race.

At 9:45 p.m., as the race approached its finale at midnight, the Maple Leaf trio put on a wild riding spree and forged a lap ahead of the German trio, Gustav Killian, Heinz Vopel and Werner Miethe, who throughout the race had accumulated an impressive sprint point edge.

From 10 o'clock to the finish, Peden and his mates strategically managed to keep their one-lap margin and coast through to victory. The international team of Cecil Walker, Ray Keller and Tommy Flynn, which trailed in last place throughout, withdrew shortly before the start of the final hour.

Stock and Bond Prices Gain at New York Mart

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (AP).—The stock market took another step forward today on its slow climb up the recovery route. Trading was comparatively broad and active, and shifted toward the recently unpopular utility group as industrial encountered some profit-taking. Turnover reached 1,411,020 shares.

Setting the best example American Telephone rallied above 110 for a gain of a point. Consolidated Gas stretched its advance to nearly 2 points as fresh buying went into the utilities in late trading.

Steel shares added to their week-end gains. United States Steel preferred rose 2 points to 84. The common and Bethlehem Steel, American Rolling Mill, Republic Steel and National Steel went up fractionally to more than a point.

Gains of rail shares generally were small.

Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit, Air Reduction, Brooklyn Union Gas, Coca-Cola, Curtiss Publishing, preferred, Hershey Chocolate, Liggett & Myers and Spiegel May-Stern were among issues scoring gains of 1 to 3 points.

Narrow price movements only were recorded in the Canadian list. International Hydro-Electric preferred got up a point.

The bond market displayed further rallying tendencies today. The better carriers advanced 1 to 1 3/4.

Polish Government 7's rallied 3 1/2 points in the foreign sections.

WEALTH A RESPONSIBILITY

Even in the Days of Pepys

FROM the celebrated diary of Samuel Pepys, Secretary of the Navy, we learn of the troubles of caring for wealth in the time of the Stuart Kings.

Sep. 14, 1665 (Year of the Plague in London)—"So home, and put up several things to carry to Woolwich, and upon serious thoughts I am advised by W. Griffin to let my money and plate rest there, as being as safe as any place, nobody imagining that people would leave money in their houses now, when all their families are gone. So for the present that being my opinion, I did leave them there still. But, Lord! to see the trouble that it puts a man to, to keep safe what with a man hath been getting together."

Apparently, even in the days of Pepys, the accumulation of wealth entailed responsibilities that were more to the average professional and business man. The Management Service of The Royal Trust Company is a modern development and will be found invaluable to those who seek for the efficient handling of their affairs.

WHEAT PRICES OFF FRACTIONS

Moderate Export Sales Fail to Stimulate Values at Winnipeg Market

WINNIPEG, Nov. 26 (CP).—Apparently disposed to pay more heed to weakness at Chicago than to a strong Liverpool market and moderate export sales of Canadian wheat, wheat futures prices weakened after a good start on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Final quotations were 1-4 to 3-8 of a cent lower, the December futures at 71-1/8, May 82 and July 82-3/4 cents. Total exports of 500,000 bushels of wheat, both to Europe and to the United States, failed to stem the slow recession from the early half-cent advances.

World wheat shipments this week totaled only 10,111,000 bushels, of which North America cleared 3,443,000 bushels. Cash grains were again active, one cargo of No. 6 wheat being reported sold to Chicago for feed. Coarse grains futures were easier in quiet trading.

"WAR IS HELL"

When a dog bites a man, that it has been truly said, is a law; but when a man bites a dog—that's news!

Similarly, when war, which has always been considered by the average citizen the crystallization of patriotic and nationalistic fervor, was declared by one of its greatest experts to be hell, that was news, very great news. So much so, that the phrase has endured long after the author, especially so as each succeeding war has added fresh emphasis to its truthful potency. The origin of the expression is attributed to General William Tecumseh Sherman, Union commander of Civil War fame.

Mrs. Brown had occasion to reprimand her colored cook rather sharply. The victim looked daggers but said nothing until she reached the kitchen, when her voice could be heard in shrill vituperation. So loud became the clamor that her mistress hurried downstairs.

"Why, Ma," she began in amazement, "who on earth are you talking to?"

"Ah ain't talkin' to nobody," was the reply, "but ah don't keer who in dis house heah's me."

Virginia Vane Says:

ARE YOU THE CRITICAL TYPE? THE HABIT OF CRITICISM
Dear Miss Vane: I have been accused of being too critical by friends and relatives. I have honestly only one idea and that is to be friendly and kind. But I cannot help disliking certain people and things. Also I cannot help criticizing even those people I like most. Is this a fault? Will this prevent my being happy with the girl I want to marry? Can you give me some idea of what I ought to do?

The critical type can be recognized from a distance. Perhaps, John, it would help you to know just how you look from that respectful distance. Perhaps you would overcome that slight suggestion of superiority complex if you realized how your system worked out.

Suppose, for instance, you marry the girl of your choice. You go away on the conventional honeymoon and you expect to be happy. You indeed believe that you are putting up a fairly creditable impersonation of the happily married man. Your bride, of course, doesn't live up to your expectations. It isn't that she does anything wrong. It is simply that she hasn't the ability apparently to do anything right.

Thus she wears the wrong clothes, says the wrong things, and in spite of your love for her, you can't help feeling uncomfortable over her mistakes—which has the effect of making you appear an unhappy bridegroom—for you can't conceal your embarrassment over her errors.

She notices your lack of enthusiasm. She can't help it. You see, you don't laugh at her jokes. You don't radiate enthusiasm over her appearance. You sit around looking apologetic when she meets other people. You don't enough confidence in the little woman to believe that when people don't like her, it's her fault. You are able to point out to her at a moment's notice just where she went wrong in dealing with the important man of business, Mr. So and So.

When you return home from the honeymoon, the important man's business becomes more important still. So do all the people who know just how to help you decorate your new home. So do the countless relatives who are eager to point out to you how faulty is your helpmeet in the matter of housekeeping. You listen to them, and you are too ready to believe that they know their stuff and the poor girl-bride is just somebody you happened to like herself—and nothing else.

Why are you so willing to tear to pieces the people you love best? Why are you content to fall in with the worst opinions held by others? Because your critical judgment has led you to assume that you yourself aren't much of a person. You've been turning the cold clear light of reason—such as you know it—on your own personality for years, and you're overcome with confusion at the result. Therefore, you have no real self-confidence. You don't believe in yourself and you cannot believe that anyone who belongs to you, or truly cares for you, can boast of taste or discrimination.

You are critical of the very love which should make you happy and contented—because it is directed toward you. You are suspicious of those who recognize your good qualities, lest they are lacking in good judgment.

You are always trying to change people to conform to a certain pattern of your own. That is because you have adopted for yourself a standard to which you yourself do not conform, and which you only believe to be admirable because of your own inadequacy.

I think you know you'd have a more comfortable time if you began to build up some reason for believing in yourself. I am sure that you need primarily some convincing proof of your own stability and competence.

My suggestion is that you, first of all, make a success of something. Have some reason to believe that you're right on certain subjects. That certainty will bring you, not a greater desire to criticize, but a tolerance and understanding that will banish your fault-finding habits.

The truly great man does not criticize trivially those who have made a failure of life. He doesn't find it necessary to run around picking out this peccadillo fault or that which has made others less successful than himself. He is able without patronage and without superiority to realize wherein they have erred—and why they have erred—and because of his realization he is far more able to like every-day human beings than his more critical, more petty brother.

Be big enough to understand your own littleness in making uncomfortable those who are nearest and dearest to you. It is no sign of weakness on your part to be unable to see eye to eye with the intolerance and petty criticism of others. But it shows infinite weakness on your part, to refuse to overlook the petty faults which are part of human nature.

METROPOLITAN OPERA ON AIR

N.B.C. to Carry Twelve Weeks of New York Productions, Start Dec. 29

Metropolitan Opera, annual music treat for the vast radio audience, will be back on the air for listeners from coast to coast, this season, M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company, announced yesterday. The sponsored series will start on Saturday, December 29, and will continue for twelve or more weeks.

As a special feature, the opera broadcasts this year also will bring Geraldine Farrar, one of the most glamorous and beloved stars in the entire history of the Metropolitan Opera Company, to the microphone as a radio raconteuse.

BACK-STAGE STORIES
The famous prima donna, who retired from the operatic stage twelve years ago at the very peak of her fame, will discuss the operas and the singers, and will entertain listeners between the acts with intimate, back-stage stories of her own and the present day at the Metropolitan Opera House.

Through special arrangements between the Metropolitan Opera Company and the National Broadcasting Company, the Christmas Day matinee performance of "Manuel and Gretel" also will be heard on the air as usual. This and other complete performances of the world's greatest operas by the nation's most famous artists will be heard throughout the United States, Canada and the Hawaiian Islands over an N.B.C. trans-continental network including at least eight stations.

NATIONAL INSTITUTION
During the past three years radio listeners throughout the country have come to look upon the Saturday afternoon opera broadcasts as a national institution. Radio has made the Metropolitan Opera, formerly available only to the favored few in New York and other large Eastern cities, the regular fare of music lovers everywhere.

This year, Geraldine Farrar and her interesting and original comments and stories, will be a special treat for those who hear grand opera over the air. Milton Cross, N.B.C. announcer, also will be in one of the N.B.C. boxes at the opera house, and will relate the stories of the operas for the listening and reading public.

Geraldine Farrar will have her own microphone in one of the grand tier boxes, which will contain a glass door through which the lady who once charmed thousands from the other side of the footlights can survey the scene in the auditorium. It also will contain a small piano, on which she will accompany herself when she wishes to sing certain passages to illustrate her remarks.

TO INTERVIEW STARS
From time to time the famous diva will ask celebrated members of the opera company to come to her box between the acts to speak to the radio audience, and will match their stories of the Metropolitan today with her own memoirs of the days fifteen years ago, when Geraldine Farrar and Enrico Caruso were making operatic history on the same stage.

As in previous years, the broadcasts will be of regular, full-length performances by the Metropolitan Opera Company, and will be picked up direct from the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House. Full details regarding the operas to be performed and the singers who will participate will be announced in advance of each broadcast. KOMO, Seattle, will broadcast the opera programmes.

Diggon put two prowlers to rout Saturday night after they had attempted to climb from the roof of the premises of Diggon-Hibben, Limited, Government Street, into the office where he was working, according to a report by police. A search was made of the district by police, but the men were not found.

Three Broadcasts of Wedding to Be Heard on Thursday

THREE broadcasts of the Royal Wedding, on Thursday, will be in reach of Victoria dialers. Two will be given by the Canadian Radio Commission, through C.R.C.V. Vancouver, and another by the British Broadcasting Corporation over short wave.

The British Broadcasting Corporation programme, which will be an actual description of the wedding from London, will be heard in Victoria, at 3:24 o'clock, Thursday morning. At 7 a.m., from London, the Canadian Radio Commission will present a recording of the actual ceremony. And finally to enable those who could not hear the previous broadcasts, another recording of the wedding will be presented from the Ottawa studios of Canadian Radio Commission, at 6:30 p.m.

OPERA BROADCAST TO START SUNDAY

English Versions of Famous Compositions on Programme Replacing Eddie Cantor

Grand opera in English, condensed into a full hour programme, will be available to the radio audience each Sunday, commencing December 2, at 5 p.m., P.S.T., over a trans-continental N.B.C. network, with the inception of the Opera Guild series. Deems Taylor, noted composer, critic and commentator, will personally supervise the production of the Opera Guild presentations. Wilfred Pelletier, Metropolitan Opera conductor, will direct an orchestra of symphonic productions throughout the series.

The outstanding opera singers of the world will be cast in the grand operas, which will be heard in the new Sunday night entertainments. In addition to the principals and members of the orchestra, a full chorus of forty trained voices will be a regular part of the Opera Guild Company. The total number of artists on each programme will exceed one hundred.

KFO, KHQ, KOMO, KGW, KFI, KVAR and KDYL are the N.B.C. stations in the West broadcasting this programme.

DANCE BROADCAST ON AIR SATURDAY

N.B.C. to Present Three Orchestras in Long Programme—Vocalists Are Chosen

Kel Murray, Xavier Cugat and Benny Goodman are the three orchestras leaders selected to play on the N.B.C. feature, "Let's Dance," which will open on Saturday, December 1, at 8:30 p.m. The broadcasts will continue for three hours.

KOMO, Seattle, will carry the entire programme. The orchestras will not follow each other in chronological order, but will play dance tunes in a style that would greet a person at a ball.

Kel Murray, well known along Broadway, has been chosen to interpret the sweet, soft-tempo tunes, while Benny Goodman will supply the more lively rhythms such as one would find in making a round of the livelier night clubs.

Xavier Cugat, who holds sway at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York, will contribute the tangy rumbas and other South American and foreign interpretations.

The vocalists chosen to sing with the various orchestras include Phil Dwyer, Frank Luther, Carmen Castiglia, Connie Gates, Helen Ward, Jack Parker and Luis Alvarez.

Friedrich Gottlieb Kleistock was a German poet of great fame and popularity in the latter half of the eighteenth century, now hardly read or readable.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

A POST-MORTEM
When after the play of a hand is completed a close double dummy inspection of the cards is made, very often ways are found in which seemingly unmakeable contracts could have been fulfilled.

On the hand below the East player, merely by careful and intelligent defence, found a way of defeating North and South's game contract. The declarer, after being forced to concede defeat, complained that he could not see any way that his contract could have been fulfilled. His partner, however, who was a very fine double dummy analyst, found a play which the declarer could have rendered the defence powerless. This play, though very interesting, is one which it would take a super-brilliant mind to think of without seeing all the cards.

East, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
North and South, part-score thirty.

With South the declarer at a contract of three spades, which was sufficient for game because of the part-score, West naturally opened the top heart in response to his partner's bid. South made the natural play of ducking in dummy.

DOCTOR'S VERDICT STRENGTHENS HOPE

ures thirty-six feet in length, with a greatest diameter of four feet, he added.

So, say the skeptics, the sea serpent, which frequented Southern British Columbia waters this past year was nothing but a basking shark. Not so, claim "Caddy" supporters; and they take Dr. Clemens' identification as proof that a basking shark never could have been taken for their famous horse-headed monster.

ALWAYS UNDAULDED
Cadorborasaurus, say the faithful, invariably progressed through the water with an undulating movement, his slender neck reared as much as twelve feet in the air. A yesterday, completely by Dr. W. A. basking shark, according to Dr. Clemens, appears at the surface always as a sluggish log and may readily be approached by a boat. Such a fish, therefore, never undulated in traveling and could not rear its head from the water.

The halibut or bristle-like structures reported from Prince Rupert, as a weird part of the Henry Island creature's construction, are part of the gill apparatus of a basking shark, and are known as gill rakers. Dr. Clemens said. They are used for straining food out of the water.
